Naming of Colby and Others to Government Posts Indicate President Will Pay Little Attention to Precedents.

tle Attention to Precedents.

(Special Carrespondent of The News Scimitar.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—President Wilson does not intend to ske out the remaining 12 menths of his term in meditionius reverence for party tradition or the comform of avoiding quarrels and controvers with his political opponents who control congress.

The appointment of Bainbridge Colby as secretary of state, has started a heavy flow of gassip and cleakroom threats that may define more clearly than ever before whether or not the senate has any real control over the kind of cabinet officers a president may select to manage the big departments of the government.

Plainly there are Democrate as well as Republicans in the senate who do not like the nomination of Mr. Colby has been too anti-British, they would find their newly acquired trish supporters tooking ackance at them.

Were senate Republicans to say Mr. Colby has been too anti-British, they would find their newly acquired trish supporters tooking ackance at them.

Were senate Republicans to argue that Mr. Colby is inexperienced for the job or unsuited temperamentally for the post, they lay themselves open to attack by Democrate who might eas the Reublican conservatives are so conservative that they would not even vote for the canfirmation of a progressive Republican.

colonial Missionary society, he was sent to New Zealand and for three years a matter of courtesy and to make inquiry into their qualifications. They contend that cabinet responsibility will inver be explained until congress establishes a precedent that would make the president give as much regard to the "artive" of the senate and acabinet appointment as any other selection that requires confirmation by the senate.

Mr. Wilson has on more than one occasion held back from appointing men who might not be confirmed by the senate and has in one conspicuous case—that of Thomas D. Jenes, of Chiraco—withdrawn a nomination for phairmanship of the federal reserve board.

The Cobby appointment, however, in not merely a personal choice but it rouses the political ire of Mr. Wilson's opponents on Capito Hill, who incidently have been feeling none too pleased over the selection of Charles R. Crune to be minister to China, a post for which he started only to be called back home by Philander C. Knox, then secretary of state, and now an active foo of the president in connection with the treaty fight.

Speaking of political repartee, the nomination of Mr. Crune is hardly palatable to Republicans.

on is concerned, he is not going to blindly to his party any more, will reach out for men of the ressive type in either party. at in itself has raised the question , possible support by the White ise for the Hoover candidacy. In gia the other day they declined to Georgia the other may they declined to let Mr. Hoover's name go on the ballo because they did not know whether o not he was a Democrat, and the paused to send the former food admin intrator a letter of inquiry.

Boost for Hoover.

But if President Wilson can take into the bosom of his official family a progressive Republican of 1912, the Democrats, who are concerned with a man's present and not past beliefs or affiliations, will be able to argue that the Democrate party can afford to accept into its ranks a progressive like Herbert Hoover.

It establishes an important precedent—or, rather, a weighty argument—for the Democrate moning thoover for the Democrate moning thoover for the Democrate nomination.

It is not known how friendly Mr. Hoover and Mr. Colby have been but it is a fact that the former is intimately associated with Charles R. Crane. He is as much of a Democrate as either Colby or Crane. Therefore, if Mr. Hoover wants the Democrate nomination the incidents of the present week will be ho him more than anything else since his name began to be mentioned.

There are senators, on the other hand, who think it is about time to stop confirming cabinet officers as a matter of courtesy and to make inquiry into their qualifications.

They contend that cabinet responsibility will never be emphasized until congress establishes a precedent that would make the president give as much regard to the "advice" of the senate on a cabinet appointment as any others selection that requires confirmation by the senate.

Speaking of political repartee, the momination of Mr. Crane is bardly palatable to Republicans.

Real Revenge.

Mr. Crane, however, has his revenge. He bolted the Republican party after that incident and supported first La Foliette and Woodrow Wilson, constributing to the campaigns of both men in the hope that either might win a marry nomination on progressive platforms.

His readiness to take a diplomatic position of lower grade—minister to China—is, therefore, viewed as having some relation. Our idea of boys' clothes is to make them adapt themselves to "real boys." When you buy a man's overcoat, you choose it for warmth. When you buy a straw hat, you choose it for coolness.

Why not, then, plan boys' clothes to fit their purpose? You can't change a boy's way of doing things, but you can make his clothes to stand up under the things you know he is going to do. We've planned our clothes to give that boy the battle of his young life in the attempt to wear them out.
